'I AM INNOCENT,' GRAY TESTIFIES IN OWN BEHALF

Witnesses for Defense in Cheta Graft Charges Hurt Its Case

Officer Jesse Gray says he is innocent. At the hearing of the bribery cases against him, held Saturday by the civil service commission in the city hall, he told, in a series of long rambling statements, of having consulted with Arthur McDuffie, chief of detectives, regarding the character of evidence needed for a conviction of the keepers of the cheta games, of whom he is accused of accepting protection money. He declared, and repeated at the request of attorneys for the prosecution, that he knew nothing of cheta before February 1, that he went to Sheriff Rose and asked how he could get convictions of the keepers of several games running in Wahiawa and was referred to McDuffie.
McDuffie told him how the game was run and what he must do to clean up the bank, he testified. He denied separately each statement in the affidavits filed against him on which the charges are based, and then each bit of evidence tending to incriminate him made by the witnesses for the prosecution. He swore that he had not accepted money, directly or indirectly, from Ahina, that he had never seen Ah Tong before he came on the witness stand and testified that he had paid him (Gray) money, that he was not introduced to Ah Tong by Ahana; in fact, that everything testified to that would tend to incriminate him was not so.

When corroborating witnesses, introduced by the defense, directly contradicted him and gave a mass of testimony that made it look bad for him, there was a gasp of surprise from the listeners.

Sheriff Rose, who has been sitting at Gray's side and actively aiding in the defense, told of Chang Chau, whose name has been introduced into the case several times by the defense, coming to him some five or six months ago and charging that Gray was accepting protection money. He said that he had told Chang to bring his witnesses, that Chang had failed to do so and witness had taken no further action in the matter. Chang returned about two months later and repeated the charges, and he repeated his request that Chang produce proof which Chang again promised to do.
After the making of charges the second time he told Gray, and Gray told him to make an investigation if he wanted to, that he was not taking any money from anyone. The sheriff took no further action until A. M. Brown, city attorney, brought the affidavits on which the charges now filed are based to him and asked what to do.
Rose declares that Brown told him that Chang Chau had brought the affidavits to him, and he was afraid that unless something was done Chang would run to Judge Ashford and make trouble, that inasmuch as there was no session of the grand jury he did not see what could be done with them and that he (Rose) had suggested that they be filed with the civil service commission.

Arthur McDuffie, chief of detectives, told Gray's case worst. He told of instructing Gray in the intricacies of cheta last September or October, and was as confident of the time as Gray had been of last January or February.

William Asam was the surprise of the day. A witness for the defense, he gave telling evidence for Gray until he was taken over by the prosecution. He first told of Gray giving him $1.75 to buy tickets and his inability to do so because he was known as a friend and helper of Gray. On cross-examination Mr. Chillingworth asked about his work and learned he had worked for Gray since December during the carnival. It was a little while before this that he had tried to buy tickets for Gray.

Continuing, Asam said that he knew tickets were being sold, everybody at Wahiawa knew it. He had seen men selling them in the barber shop, the bottling works and on the streets.
Lots of men sold them, and he could not remember the names of all but could point them out. Asam knew they were selling tickets because he saw them. Some only bought occasionally, and others were regular customers and bought as often as twice a day. Runners went everywhere twice a day and it was generally known when and where they could be found.
He said Gray told him Yuen Hick was selling tickets, and that Gray, like everyone else, knew runners were selling tickets.

Dr. H. Wood, a government physician at Wahiawa, testified that about a year ago he inspected the slaughterhouse of Chang Chau at Wahiawa at Gray's request and found that it was not complying with regulations, and that Chang Chau in a conversation held over the telephone at the time had threatened to "get Gray."

Akana, a tailor at Castner, refuted the testimony given at a previous hearing by Ah Tong, that he had been introduced to Gray by Akana, and that he had paid Akana $5 a week to be paid to Gray for protection. He denied knowing Ah Tong, said that he had not introduced Gray to anyone last fall, as he did not know him then.
Several residents of Wahiawa who Gray declares have acted as spies for him in his endeavors to suppress cheta, will be the last witnesses for the defense at a hearing to be held in the supervisors' chambers tonight.

John Sarra, aged 24, arrested as a white slaver, was shot and killed when he attempted to escape from Detective Patton in Williamsburg.

Albert Kennedy, 18 years old, of the Bronx, died of a fracture of the skull received when struck on the head by a baseball while watching practice.

POLICE PERJURY FOOLISH CHARGE, CITIZEN THINKS

Confusion of Incidents in Auto Accident Case Causes Civil Service Probe

As the civil service commissioners refuse to entertain a complaint against four police officers made by District Magistrate J. M. Monsarrat, unless the sheriff prefer charges, and as Deputy Sheriff Asch asserts that all four were telling the truth, the matter will very likely be dropped. But for the information of and in justice to all parties concerned, the Star-Bulletin publishes the following statement of a citizen who was present in police court during the alleged conflict of testimony, and was an attentive listener.

"The alleged conflict of testimony on the part of the four officers merely seemed to be conflicting and wasn't actually so, for the reason that Chilton and Wright didn't know Enright and Huihui had already been there, and Enright and Huihui didn't know Chilton and Wright had visited the scene of the automobile accident in which the testimony was introduced.
To make the matter worse, the defendant Gaspar was said to be so drunk that he could not remember the details of the night.

"Here are the facts as I gathered them at the police court hearing: The accident involving John Gaspar occurred at Palama; Sergeant Enright happened to be riding on a street car that was passing; he got off, and stayed a few minutes until Bike Cop Huihui arrived. Either Enright or Huihui sent for the patrol wagon. But for some unknown reason, neither Enright or Huihui placed a charge against Gaspar. The evidence didn't show whether Gaspar was immediately locked up for the night, and very likely he was not, as there was then no charge against him. Gaspar then left the police station and returned to the scene of the accident. Here Chilton and Wright found him a half-hour or more after the accident occurred, and made a careful examination of the scene and the defendant. Chilton then placed a charge against Gaspar at the police station, but the evidence failed to show how Gaspar was returned to the police station, although it does show that Gaspar was then locked up for the night.

"In my opinion, the testimony of the desk sergeant on duty at that hour is essential to clearing up the seeming discrepancies in the testimony.

"Was Gaspar locked up immediately when the patrol wagon brought him?"

"At what hour did the patrol wagon bring Gaspar to the station?"
"Why didn't Enright or Huihui place a charge against Gaspar?"

"Just how did Chilton get Gaspar from the scene of the accident to the police station? These are all questions that should be investigated by the sheriff and by the commissioners.
The public is interested in seeing the police absolutely cleared or else charges preferred."

DEAN H. LAKE TO TELL STATES OF HAWAII NEI

FUND FOR BOYS' HOME GROWS FOR FATHER LOUIS

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence) HILO, April 21.—Father Louis becomes more cheerful every day a mail reaches Hilo and on Sunday last he was even more delighted than usual. He had received good news from Honolulu and also had received two fine donations of money for his boys' home from residents of this island.
Mrs. J. T. Blair forwarded a check for $200 and Mrs. W. H. Shiman did the same. The total amount now in hand for the boys' home comes to $2500.
The good father is working hard to establish the home and he has the backing of all the citizens, independent of denominational beliefs. The home will do a lot of good for poor homeless, or worse children of all creeds and nationalities.
